

UNSW Staff Giving to the University of New South Wales

There are a number of areas across all faculties and the University that you can support. Direct your gift to where it matters most to you, including research, Chairs, scholarships, arts/culture, sports, awards, prizes and capital works.

What is workplace giving?

Workplace giving is a simple and effective way for you to regularly donate through automated payroll deductions to UNSW and other nominated charities.

What is in it for you?

By contributing to a workplace giving pre-tax program, you receive the benefit of an immediate tax deduction from your fortnightly wage. Ultimately this means that less money is spent on fundraising and more can be used for the actual cause.

Other Benefits:

- You spread your donations over the year rather than making a larger one-off donation.
- You receive the benefit of a tax deduction each pay period, depending on the amount donated.
- You are helping the environment as there is no need to print, collect and keep receipts.
- You are supporting something you care about.

What happens at tax time?

In a pre-tax workplace giving system you will have already received the tax benefit throughout the year for your donation. The amount you have donated will be reported on your payment summary under "Workplace Giving". It's an easy way to give!

Some areas at UNSW you can support

Scholarships:

A scholarship, award or prize at UNSW recognises student achievement in academic, athletic, artistic or other fields of endeavour. Scholarships can also support disadvantaged students to fulfil their dreams. UNSW is committed to a diverse student body, which respects aspirations and ability above economic circumstance.

Research:

At UNSW there are many areas of research to support. In each faculty research to improve and benefit our community takes place every day. Research areas include – medicine, arts, business, science, mental health, environment and many others.

Capital Works:

The University is undertaking a 5 year Capital campaign to upgrade facilities and build new ones to provide a contemporary and engaging campus for students and its key communities. Be a part of creating an exciting and innovative campus that supports our researchers and students of tomorrow.
